GOVERNOR'S LECTURE IN SESKO TNI: "STRATEGIC LEADERSHIP"

Governor of Lemhannas RI Prof. Dr. Ir. Budi Susilo Soepandji, D.E.A. gives a lecture to the students of Sesko TNI in Bandung, West Java.

Governor of Lemhannas RI Prof. Dr. Ir. Budi Susilo Soepandji gave a lecture to the students of the regular course of TNI Staff and Command School (Sesko TNI) on May 3, 2011 at Sesko TNI in Bandung. The lecture delivered was themed "Strategic Leadership".

At the beginning of his lecture, Governor of Lemhannas RI delivered on the development of leadership paradigm. Leadership is a process of influence in order to determine the goals of the organization, motivate the behavior of the followers to achieve goals, improve the group and its culture. Leadership has a close connection with motivation. It was also said that the success of a leader in moving the others to achieve determined goals relies heavily on his/her intelligence and charisma and how the leader create self-motivation in his/her subordinates, colleagues, or superiors.

Governor of Lemhannas RI also mentioned that the military leadership model can be classified into two types, namely senior-level leadership and junior-level leadership. Military leadership is essentially an elaboration and a simplification of the 11 Principles of TNI Leadership (taqwa, ing ngarso sung tulada, ing madya mangun karsa, tut wuri handayani, waspada purba wisesa, ambeg parama arta, prasaja, satya, gemi nestiti, belaka, and legawa). The 11 principles of TNI leadership can be implemented in terms of the consolidation over the regeneration of TNI leaders, the total integration of the TNI and the people, TNI maturation, social communication, development of total defence system, and manifestation of soldiers professionalism. As for the process of regeneration in the military leadership, it is hoped that the future military leadership will have good characters, such as honest and brave (physically and morally), knowledgeable, assertive and thoughtful, loyal and trustworthy, fair and wise. They should also be a role model who is loyal, able to make decisions, and so forth.

Governor of Lemhannas RI also spoke about Indonesia's National Leadership Index (IKNI) which is a description of social trust benchmark regarding the capability and acceptability of a leader. The IKNI itself has 4 (four) categories: first, the index of morality and individual accountability; second, the index of morality and social accountability; third, the index of institutional morality and accountability; fourth, a global index of morality and accountability.

ROUNDTABLE DISCUSSION: STRATEGIES TO DEVELOP RENEWABLE ENERGY IN THE FRAMEWORK OF ENERGY SECURITY IN ORDER TO SUPPORT NATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

S On Tuesday, May 3, 2011 on the 3rd Floor, West Wing of Astagatra Building, the Deputy for Strategic Studies of Lemhannas RI organized a roundtable discussion on the “Strategy to Develop Renewable Energy in the Framework of Energy Security in Order to Support National Development”. The roundtable discussion was led by Governor of Lemhannas RI Prof. Dr. Ir. Budi Susilo Soepandji, D.E.A. and was attended by the Secretary of the Governing Board, the First Secretary, Expert Lecturers, Expert Analysts, Expert Professionals, speakers and panelists as well as Lemhannas officials and other invitees.

In the keynote speech of Governor of Lemhannas RI which was read by the First Secretary, it was conveyed that the geographical condition of Indonesia, with its spread-out energy resources, requires a strategic and sustainable planning and management. Therefore, the regional governments need to be involved so that they take responsibility for the availability of energy in their regions. Indonesia’s energy needs continue to increase significantly from year to year, while the current energy needs are mostly (95.21%) still dependent on fossil-based fuels (oil, natural gas and coal) and it is predicted that they will be exhausted in about 11 years, assuming there will be no exploitation of new fields.

The current problems in the energy sector that need serious attention, among others, include the followings: first, more of Indonesia’s energy is exported than meets domestic demand; second, the low allocation of investment funds to increase energy reserves; third, suboptimal achievement of the target for energy mix program; fourth, high use of energy for consumptive activities instead of productive activities; fifth, energy prices have not been based on the fair economic value and it makes energy subsidies are not well targeted;

sixth, declining oil production levels; and seventh, protection/preservation of the environment has not been a priority.

At the end of his keynote speech, Governor of Lemhannas RI expected us all to be able to change the paradigm of energy resources as a capital for the development, increase proven reserves of fossil energy and reduce their share in national energy mix, increase the share of new renewable energy resources, improve program efficiency, conservation and diversification as well as the success in environmental conservation and other strategic steps in developing renewable energy.

This management system has yet to be supported by the national information system for the improvement in efficiency and effectiveness of public servants. Regional governments are parts of the national governing system within the framework of the Unitary State of the Republic of Indonesia. Therefore, this system should be implemented nationally within the framework of the strengthening of the relationship between central and regional governments, especially in the acceleration of national development. The purpose for the implementation of the national management system and national information system is to achieve harmony, balance and sustainability so that an integrated policy can be built using a participatory approach among the actors. This process depends on the capacity of leadership as a visionary statesman who demonstrates the ability to mobilize institutional capital through the development of creativity and innovation and improvement in productivity.

The regional autonomy and decentralization aim at sharing the roles as well as responsibilities between the central and regional government institutions in developing regional potentials. Therefore, the vision and mission of government institutions must be in harmony despite of differences in the strategies and priorities in order to suit their respective regional potentials. There are various problems in the regional autonomy which are caused by, such as, weak national information system as the basis for the application of the national management system. Therefore, public competencies are required through formal education, enlightenment through mass media, and social contacts. Besides, an attention needs to be given to cost and risk aspects, such as data security, including the response from the people.
