

Interview with Governor of Lemhannas RI

Prof. DR. Muladi, S.H., in an interview with journalist from Mimbar Politik Magazine

On February 11, 2010, the Governor of Lemhannas RI, Prof. DR. Muladi, S.H., on the sidelines of his busy schedule, gave an interview with a journalist from a political magazine in Jakarta. The Governor of Lemhannas was interviewed at his office. The topic of interview was about the issue of weak law enforcement, rendering indication of the reason why foreign investors are not quite interested in making investment in Indonesia. In a democratic country, if talking about good governance, then there will be 3 pillars namely: first, state pillar; second, role of private sector; third, civil society. Therefore, the state, in its development, can no longer stand on its own. It is because the private sector also plays an important role, especially in civil society sector.

All of them are closely related to condition of our law-based country which is still far from satisfactory, let alone practices occurring recently, for example Bank Century case, followed by judicial mafia. In addition, there are also corruption cases involving members of DPR (People's House of Representatives), DPRD (Provincial House of Representatives), Mayor, and District Head, as well as Governor, even ex-ministers. The said condition has become our great concern. Further the Governor of Lemhannas RI said that the measure taken by the President by stipulating it as issue that should be paid attention to, is very appropriate. So that, to improve quality of law based country the Governor of Lemhannas said that there are 3 important things namely: first, Building good organization structure, including its Human Resources, since human is main system of organization structure; second, Substantive matters and legislation products, since any things really identifying on what to revise from the said Legislation should be learned through; third, cultural issue, since culture is a point of view, value, perception, building a good bureaucratic reform, relating to state apparatus. This third out of the three points is causing more concern, since a culture of the end justifies the means still frequently happened in Indonesia. Therefore, we need tough, credible, strong and unadorned persons in leading law institutions, either Chief Police, Attorney General, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and Chief of Constitutional Court of Justice.

Further, the Governor of Lemhannas RI said that criminal judicial system in all lines are still become focus of public attention, particularly Police, Attorney General, and also the Supreme Court and Judicial Institution lines. The Governor of Lemhannas RI explains that if we talk about source of corruption, the following formula can be used:

$$C = M + D - A$$

Where:

C = Corruption

M = Man namely official granted with monopoly of power, such as Prosecutor, Judge, D = Discretion namely official having authority to take any measures allowable by Legislation.

A = Accountability

Such as in criminal case of thievery which shall be subject to imprisonment of 1 through 4 years, the judge may, based on legal consideration and his/her belief, pass imprisonment of 1 day or more from 1 day to a maximum of 4 years, and A = Accountability, namely person any person who is granted with monopoly of power and authority to determine wide scope of discretion, but not relating to accountability, since accountability will only be responsible to one's self, society and state, while the Judge will, in addition to be responsible to him/her self, also be responsible to God.

Urgency of Revising Law Number 32 of 2004 Regarding Decentralization

Roundtable discussion (RTD) with a theme of “Urgency of Revising Law Number 32 of 2004 regarding Decentralization in the Context of Regional Head Election to support the Implementation of National Management System in Region in the Framework of Stabilizing National Resilience” was convened on February 16, 2010 in Nusantara Room I Trigatra, Lemhannas RI.

Governor of Lemhannas RI accompanied by Vice Governor presiding over the Roundtable Discussion Session

The Governor of Lemhannas RI, Prof. Dr. Muladi, S.H., opens the discussion and gives his viewpoint in relation to urgency of revising Law No. 32 of 2004. This theme needs to be the first priority to study, since it has strategic values as the effort aiming at improving public service and prosperity. Discussion of law also requires partial and comprehensive viewpoint to obtain full description on substance of regional head election, as well as avoid misinterpretation in regard to the legislation.

According to the Governor of Lemhannas RI, the policy of decentralization in the context of establishment of autonomous region will be the appropriate choice, particularly to improve efficiency and effectiveness of government supervision and service. Since the beginning, the founders of Indonesia fully realize that the Indonesian Government can not be managed by centralization, but the implementation of Regional Head Election (Pilkada) which is all these times full of conflict, suit each other, event inter-group conflict would be an indication of importance to discuss the same due to frequent misinterpretation in the implementation of law regarding arrangement of Regional Head Election. The Regional Head Election which is actually needed to encourage democratic culture is failed to be democratic propagation. Regional Head Election process has resulted in various issues, starting from efficiency issue to effectiveness of government administration in region. The Governor also added that “position of governor as representative of government in region has not yet functioned well, so that the government management system is not effective, let alone if it is related to behavior of district head or mayor in the mechanism of regional development coordination”.

Grand design in revision of Law No. 32 of 2004 has placed democracy as an effort of fulfillment of civil rights to participate in development process so that manifestation of Indonesian democracy should be formulated comprehensively in the national resilience context.

There are some factors that should be paid attention in the revision context; first, representative deliberative principles in democratic context and Regional Head Election mechanism; second, position of government agency including relation between regional head and DPRD (Provincial House of Representatives); third, inter-government agencies work mechanism (central-regional) and stakeholders; fourth, leadership capacity and competency in the application of National Management System and apparatus competency; fifth, profit sharing pattern between central and provincial government and management of provincial revenue sources; sixth, planning mechanism and development policy which is integrated and sustainable; and seventh, relation between regional stability and national vigilance and national resilience.

From the said RTD, the Governor expects that the study can give alternative relevant to democratization frame in the decentralization and autonomy process which shall be subject to recommendation of policy to the government and may support implementation of national management system in region. It is made to stabilize the national resilience as well as improve public service and wealth.

Situation upon Opening Ceremony on Stabilization of National Values to Division Head and its equivalent of BP MIGAS and leaders of stakeholders in Dwi Warna Purwa Building, Lemhannas RI

Stabilization of Indonesian national values as consolidating means of national unity of Indonesia has developed since growth of national awareness which is pluralistic in the heart of young generation of Indonesia, not only upon proclamation of independence on August 17, 1945, but far before it namely on May 20, 1908 and October 28, 1928, being monumental historical event in the history of the Republic of Indonesia.

The Governor of Lemhannas RI, Prof.DR. Muladi, S.H., reminded the same to Division Head and Equivalent of BP Migas and leader of stakeholders when participating in the program of stabilization of national values opened by the Governor of Lemhannas RI on Monday, February 22, 2010 in Lemhannas RI.

Further, the Governor of Lemhannas RI explained that, stabilization or consolidation of national values requires equal understanding to Indonesia. The national values, should originate in interaction process which is getting expanded and open and based on pluralism toward a value arrangement accepted by all groups of people and pursuant to its era dynamicity. Togetherness in one nation, one language, one state, to Indonesian nation which is very pluralistic should be built based on objective and non-primordialistic values.

Executive Body of Petroleum Upstream Operation (BP Migas) as institution entrusted by the government to manage natural assets of Indonesia, plays a very strategic role in giving contribution to state revenue to finance development to attain security and prosperity of Indonesian people. By the performance of stabilization of national values to division head/equivalent as well as to partners and stakeholders relating to BP Migas, being real effort to perform transformation of behavior and moral of leadership in line with guidance on good governance and clean government, toward state identity, so as to be able to combine national interest, either central or provincial government interests rationally with orientation and objective to make all of Indonesian people prosperous.

By this stabilization, the participants are expected to be able to think systematically and comprehensively, integrally for national interest in the framework of the Unitary State of the Republic of Indonesia; encourage responsive, anticipative, cooperative, synergetic attitude toward the interest of people; being concerned to potency owned by region and develop regional independence as well as commitment to survival of national development securing prosperity, democracy, and justice in the framework of good governance.
