The Governor had the opportunity to give lecture to the Training of Trainers participants who came from the various backgrounds such as teachers, lecturers, and training on Tuesday (21/9).

Parallel Session of Call for Paper of “Journal kajian” of Lemhannas RI

The Deputy Office for Strategic Studies of Lemhannas RI again held a Parallel Session of Call for Paper on “Jurnal Kajian” of Lemhannas RI (research journal of Lemhannas RI) on Thursday (23/9). A total of 21 “Jurnal Kajian” with national resilience as its theme with writers from various universities and institutions were registered to participate in the parallel session.

The Director of Study Development Program of Lemhannas RI, Hentoro Cahyono, S.H., M.H. in his report said that all participants were divided into four virtual rooms, namely the socio-cultural room, the defense and security and geography room, the ideological and political room, as well as the economic and natural resources room. Each virtual room is managed by a moderator, operator, and attended by a tutor. It aims to give the opportunity for participants to get guidance and input on the journals that have been published.

The Deputy for Strategic Studies of Lemhannas RI Prof. Dr. Ir. Reni Mayerni, M.P. in her speech said that currently, the publication of Indonesian research results at the global level is considered very low, especially those indexed in reputable international indexes. One of the contributing factors is the undeveloped writing culture in society and the low willingness and ability to write research results and community service. It is not surprising then that the dissemination of research results and community service through international scientific periodicals is still low. “The development of culture and ability, especially motivation to write, becomes a challenge and a problem that must be overcome immediately,” She said.

The motivation to conduct research has not been balanced with the moral responsibility as a researcher to disseminate the results of his research which are very useful for the wider community both for practical purposes and for theoretical development. In fact, by publishing research results in scientific journals, researchers will get a lot of input and at the same time, the opportunity to further develop their research in the future.

One of the efforts to increase the nation's competitiveness is through universities, including in this case Lemhannas RI, by increasing the quality and quantity of publications. “The role of Lemhannas RI and universities in the development of science and technology is not only the contribution of their graduates or quality alumni, but also from research results that are relevant to scientific development and development needs,” The Deputy said. Currently, Lemhannas RI has published printed journals that have been running until the 44th edition in December 2020 and online journals that are still in the pioneering stage towards accreditation.

The Governor of Lemhannas RI as Speaker at the National Webinar Untag Semarang

Mon, September 27th 2021

The Governor of Lemhannas RI, Lieut. Gen. (Ret.) Agus Widjojo, was present as a speaker at the National Webinar “Law Enforcement Toward a Humanist Justice – a Criminal Perspective”. Organized by the University of 17 August 1945 (Untag) Semarang, the webinar was held virtually on Monday (27/9).

On that occasion, The Governor discussed the topic “Restorative Justice in Law Enforcement toward a Humanist Justice”. Starting his presentation, The Governor stated that humanism is a movement to raise awareness of human values primarily emphasizing on humans as individual and personal beings.

Furthermore, The Governor said that restorative justice is a form of law enforcement toward a humanist justice. The guideline for the application of restorative justice in the general judiciary is already available, namely the Decree of the Director General of the Supreme Court of the Republic of Indonesia Number 1691/DJU/SK/PS.00/12/2020 dated December 22, 2020 concerning the Enforcement of Guidelines for the Implementation of Restorative Justice.

Restorative justice is an alternative for resolving criminal cases that focuses on dialogue and mediation processes involving perpetrators, victims, families of perpetrators/victims, and other related parties to cooperatively create an agreement on a fair and balanced settlement of criminal cases for both victims and perpetrators, by prioritizing the restoration to its original state and restoring the pattern of good relations in society. The values of humanism in restorative justice are realized by carrying out movements to support a generalist approach that allows all crime victims to access restorative justice procedures at all stages of the criminal proceedings.

The Governor closed his session by presenting a recommendation that the idea of the humanist aspect in a criminal perspective should not be reviewed with sectorial approach to deal with overcapacity correctional institutions, but viewed using a systemic approach. There are several things worth to consider, firstly the completion of good legal proceedings is emphasized more on the quality aspect rather than quantity target at the operational level, secondly searching for solutions to the deceleration in completing the proceedings, and thirdly emphasizing on preventing rather than handling cases in the context of law enforcement functions and public safety and order.

However, it is also necessary to increase the maximum added value for the national interest, for the interest of the country, for the benefit of the people. "That's why we take over the ownership of several foreign companies," He said.

On this occasion, the President reminded the importance of down streaming that we are no longer able to export commodities in the form of raw materials that have no added value. The President emphasized that the principles of a sustainable economy that must be adhered to are the green

"We ourselves, our children, and our students must be prepared to be strong, ready to learn, ready to face change," He said.

Closing Ceremony of PPSA 23

Thu, October 14th 2021

On this occasion, The Governor emphasized the importance of alumni being able to implement the knowledge they gained to serve in the community. The Governor also emphasized that the work of dharma bakti essentially becomes concrete when alumni work in the field in their respective positions. "Not without purpose that in western countries, graduation is referred to as 'commencement day' which means the beginning of dharma bakti, compared to the term 'graduation' which we often interpret as the end of the education period," He said in front of the alumni.

There are four points that Agus emphasized to PPSA 23 Alumni. First, PPSA 23 alumni who are national level leadership cadres, must be able to pose as examples and role models for

The institution hopes that the relationship between alumni and the institution will be maintained because with the opinions and ideas from alumni, the institution can always adapt to the development occurring in society. Fourth, with the Covid-19 pandemic, alumni must continuously implement health protocols to stop the corona virus from spreading.
