Commemorating Youth Pledge Day 2023, Lemhannas RI Holds Gebyar Wawasan Kebangsaan

JAKARTA - Lemhannas RI once again held a Gebyar Wawasan Kebangsaan (National Outlooks National Outlooks Talkshow) with the theme “Young Generation as the Power in Building the Nation Towards Golden Indonesia” to commemorate the 2023 Youth Pledge Day on Tuesday (17/10), at the Aryanusa Ballroom of Menara Danareksa, Central Jakarta.

The talkshow is held by Lemhannas RI as an effort to maximize the potential of the young generation as a force to build the nation towards golden Indonesia. The Governor of Lemhannas RI, Andi Widjajanto as the keynote speaker, stated that one most basic point that must grow in the minds of the Indonesian people is the reason why Indonesia needs national outlooks.

Andi Widjajanto explained the journey of Indonesian youth since 1928. The journey of Indonesian youth began with opening the gates to build Indonesia the Indonesian nation. The journey continues with the struggles to establish independence. However, this made Indonesia the Indonesian nation stronger because from 1945 to 1968 the gate of independence was side by side with the gate of unity and integrity.

Furthermore, Andi Widjajanto stated that during the New Order,

Indonesia entered its third gate called the gate of development. Indonesia had come to the democracy and reform era which was initiated in 1997 to 1998. The Indonesian democracy foundation was strengthened until 2004 with several regulatory instruments including amendments to the 1945 Constitution. This progression continues until 2024 by which Indonesia has been practicing democracy with six consecutive general election since 1999.

Regarding this issue, Andi Widjajanto reminded the participants that the aim of Gebyar Wawasan Kebangsaan national outlooks was to ensure that when the younger generation opens the gates of golden Indonesia, they always remember the journey of Indonesian youth since 1928 and continue their efforts towards golden Indonesia in 2045 as the goal of the Indonesian youth hard work.

The event was moderated by Yohana Elizabeth and presented several speakers, namely Satya Lencana Awardee for Social Service and Kick Andy Heroes, dr. Yusuf Nugraha, M.H.; Founder of Yayasan Harapan Pemuda Indonesia the Indonesian Youth Hope Foundation, Laila Nihayati; and Artist and Literacy Activist, Yosi Moku.

A good organizational structure must be able to adapt responsively and anticipatively to the demands of environmental changes. Therefore, carrying out the institutional evaluation is the right way to learn whether the current organization is suitable for the upcoming challenges. "Ideally, an organizational structure must be dynamic as a consequence of adapting to the dynamics of changes in the internal and external environment," Acting Coordinator of Organization and Administration of the Planning Bureau of the Prime Secretariat of Lemhannas RI, Erwin Herwinadi, S.E., M.A., stated when starting his speech.

The speaker of the event was Associate Policy Analyst at the Assistant Deputy Office for Institution and Administration, Politics, Law and Security, and Regional Government of the Ministry of Administrative and Bureaucratic Reform (KemenPAN-RB), Erni Herawati, S.E. She explained that the KemenPAN-RB is obliged to carry out government institutional evaluations at minimum every three years. The process includes preparation, data collection, data processing, data analysis, and evaluation reports.

Institutional evaluation consists of two dimensions, namely structure and process. In the structural dimension, ideally the structure of regional apparatus is dynamic and flexible. Meanwhile, in the process dimension, the organization processes and plays a role in the ongoing activities of the organization.

Furthermore, the structure dimension has three sub-dimensions including complexity, formalization and centrality. Meanwhile, in the process dimension, there are alignment, management and compliance, process improvement and enhancement, risk management, and information technology.

Lemhannas RI Discusses Indonesia's Position in the Midst of US Geo-Economics

JAKARTA - Highlighting current developments, Lemhannas RI considers it important to study the United States' geo-economic strategies and interests as well as their impacts on the national economy. Therefore, a Focus Group Discussion (FGD) was held regarding this issue at the Kresna Room on Thursday (26/10).

"Economic diplomacy directly confronts market forces," the Deputy for Strategic Studies of Lemhannas RI, Prof. Dr. Ir. Reni Mayerni, M.P. said when opening the discussion. This is reflected with the development of the contemporary world and its growing economic diplomatic relations, including the process of formulating and negotiating policies related to production activities and the exchange of goods, services, labor and investment with other countries.

In line with this, the United States has long been one of the largest economic powers in the world and its geo-economic strategy plays an important role in maintaining and developing its position at the global level. On the other hand, China also possesses a growing economic power. Therefore, there is an increasing geopolitical and geo-economic competition between China and the United States in the South China Sea region which certainly has an impact on Indonesia.

"This (competition between China and the United States) creates challenges for Indonesia to maintain its sovereignty, security, and position in the midst of energy transformation on a global scale," Deputy for Strategic Studies of Lemhannas RI stated. Especially, considering that Indonesia has the potential for renewable energy that can strengthen economic defense, nationally and internationally.

Present at the FGD as the speakers were the Head of the STIN Intelligence Studies Master Study Program, Dr. Mira Murniasara, S.S., LL.M. CTMP; CSIS Indonesia Researcher, Dandy Rafitrandi, S.E., M.Sc.; American Studies Lecturer of the University of Indonesia, Dr. Muhammad Fuad; and Director of America I, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Iwan Fredy Susanto. Meanwhile, present as discussants were Assistant of the President's Special Staff –Cabinet Secretariat of RI, Dr. Telisa Aulia Falianty, S.E., M.E. and Professional Expert for Politics of Lemhannas RI, Police Commissioner General (Ret.) Drs. Heru Winarko, S.H., M.H.

currently faces are increasingly complex, domestically and globally. This is indicated by the impact of drought caused by El Niño phenomenon, long-term global warming, and extreme climate change.

Meanwhile, in the economic sector, Indonesia is experiencing weak domestic market competitiveness, especially MSME products and the downstreaming as one of the government's programs. In responding to all these challenges, Lemhannas RI, Purnomo Yusgiantoro Center, and National University of Singapore collaborated to run the strengthening course program for regional leaders.

This is in line with Lemhannas RI's mission to prepare national and regional-level leaders that have comprehensive thinking, national outlooks, and universal perspective. Besides increasing competence and knowledge, the KPPD-I also give the participants the understanding of various aspects of regional leadership including human resource management, public policy, effective communication, and formulation of mitigation for diverse complex problems.

The KPPD-I program was divided into three stages and completed within three weeks. The first stage is the preparation step that started from October 26 to October 28 with the agenda of registration, psychological test, and opening ceremony respectively. The second phase of the course program was held for two weeks from October 29 to November 10 in Singapore. The third stage of the course program was held for one week from November 13 to November 17, followed by closing ceremony at Lemhannas RI.
