Lemhannas RI carries out the national seminar with the theme The Urgency of Regional Expansion For The Improvement Of Community Service & Welfare which performed on August 29th, 2009. Prof. DR. Muladi, S.H., as the Governor of Lemhannas RI said that during the constant democratization process, in which one of its principle values that was unanimously agreed upon was the implementation of the Regional Autonomy program, the regional expansion had received the priority for review as on one hand it has strategic values as an effort to increase public service and welfare, but on the other hand it also raises some issues caused by partial perceptions that occur and is not yet comprehensive in interpreting the constitutions. Therefore no complete image has ever been made regarding the substance of regional expansion. It will impact on the performance being made so the decentralization policy had served as the right option as one of the manifestations for the forming of an autonomous region.

In accordance with the 1945 Constitutions, the purpose of granting autonomy to the regions was to quicken the realization of public welfare through improvement of community service, empowerment and involvement, those regions hoped to be able to improve competitive capabilities concerning to democracy principles, distribution, justice, and specialty, particularity along with potential and regional diversity within The Unitary State of Republic of Indonesia.

In the last decade, the expansion and establishing of autonomous regions has continued steadily. Since 1999 up to this day, 205 autonomous regions have been established, consists of 7 provinces, 164 regencies and 34 municipalities. Therefore the current total number of autonomous regions that have been established amount to 524 regions that consists of 33 provinces, 398 regencies and 93 municipalities.

Since the reformation, the regional expansion phenomena had occurred in public as if without control, therefore appearing as process of regional segregation being easily carried out which also appears as beneficial more for the political elites, therefore overseeing rational and constructive requirements. In this matter, the government, being responsible for carrying out the regional autonomy program faces difficulties in controlling the growth pace of regional expansion as it yet has a grand design regarding the ideal amount of autonomous regions in Indonesia along with other various constraints in implementing regional expansion evaluations, based on calculated parameters. Meanwhile at the same time a series of new proposals concerning regional expansion is being discussed by the Legislative Assembly.

Lemhannas RI, either as the national leadership education institution and the strategic studies and nationalism values consolidation center is always concerned with international indices, which can be used as a self introspection tool. The two international indices that more or less relates to the seminar's theme for reflection are:

1. The Democracy Index from the Economist Intelligence Unit Index that evaluates the conditions of 167 countries based on several parameters where one of them is the Functioning of Government. In 2008, from the four classified categories; Full Democracy, Flawed Democracy, Hybrid Regimes and Authoritarian Regimes, Indonesia along with 53 other countries categorized as the Flawed Democracy.

2. The Failed States Index from The Fund For Peace And The Magazine Foreign Policy, in which one of the indicators is the Progressive Deterioration of Public Service that produces four categories; Alert, Warning, Moderate and Sustainable. In 2008 Indonesia, from 177 countries, Indonesia along with 93 others was listed under the Warning category.

OPTIMALIZATION OF BASIC DUTY AND FUNCTION

Referring to the National Development Paradigm number six, discoursed by President Susilo Bambang Yudhoyono, in which development strategy focuses on the improvement of human resource, therefore Deputy of Nationalism Values Consolidation tries to implant nationalism values in the life of community, nation and state.

DEVELOPMENT OF ELECTRONIC EVALUATION (E-EVALUATION) SYSTEM

Learning and teaching process of Lemhannas RI members on the development of Electronic Evaluation (E-Evaluation) System

The role of Information Communication Technology (ICT) today has developed rapidly, in which this gives more positive impacts on work results, either in quality or quantity. The development of information technology also has improved greatly in helping someone to access, give or receive information faster through the using of computer. Related to the ICT field, in this 3rd Edition October 2009, the editorial staff of Lemhannas RI Newsletter delivers information on the Development of Electronic Evaluation (E-Evaluation) System in the National Resilience Institute of the Republic of Indonesia Environment. As we know, the Information System of ICT is a very important means or tool on the implementation of basic function and duty, either to government or private institutions, in order to achieve efficiency and effectiveness. That's why Lemhannas RI at this moment is developing the application of Good Governance through Electronic Evaluation (E-Evaluation) System in its environment to produce speed and accuracy of information, as well as transparency in various fields according to the basic functions and duties of Chief Secretariat and Deputies. Application of that Electronic Evaluation begins in education field, such as in the Short Term Education Program (PPSA) and Regular Education Program (PPRA).

Development of Electronic Evaluation in the Lemhannas RI environment is expected to aid and facilitate human resources in conducting evaluation in the education field so they would be able to obtain maximum result.

The E-Evaluation Development is expected to give the following results:

1. An Electronic Evaluation System that is able to support fast, accurate and transparent education program evaluation process;
2. Trained operator workers to operate Electronic Evaluation System;
3. Electronic Evaluation System to be well socialized to computer users.

E-Evaluation System is also expected to be able to improve the quality of the Lemhannas RI Teaching Experts; such as:

1. Information System Implementation Project Manager;
2. Information Management Expert;
3. Analyst System;
4. Database Designer and Database Administrator;
5. Programmer.

Benefits for the PPSA and PPRA Participants are as follows:

1. Participants are able to quickly obtain evaluation scores data;
2. Participants are able to know their scores transparently;
3. Participants are able to access evaluation scores data, at any time and any place;
4. Participants are able to obtain other information, for instance, class schedule, tutorial schedule, main activity schedule, et cetera.

Another benefit of the E-Evaluation development is: Improvement of the Institution's credibility and accountability.

LEMHANNAS RI GOVERNOR'S SUDDEN INSPECTION

One of the Lemhannas RI's activities as a form of implementing Good Governance within its internal environment is the disciplining of its employees in order to improve state implementation, as explained in the IKNI Booklet issued by Lemhannas RI titled "The Improvement Of The National Leadership System In Order To Support The State Implementation For The Achievement Of National Purposes". Lemhannas RI Governor Prof. DR. Muladi, S.H. accompanied by the Lemhannas RI Chief Secretary DR. Ardi Partadinata, M.H., M.Si carried out a Sudden Inspection on 24th September, 2009, marking the first day of work after the Idul Fitri long holidays from 18th to 23rd September, 2009 to each and every institute's working unit.

The inspection activity was also used by the Governor to gather with the institute's members, overseeing work routines and undergoing direct checking on members' work attendance at every unit. The attendance percentage on the first day of work had been at 95%, the rest being absent due to transportation difficulties and ill health. Aside from observing every working unit, the Governor also underwent checking on the institute's cleanliness and security.

Lemhannas RI Governor Prof. DR. Muladi, S.H., gathering with one of the staff of the Deputy of Nationalism Values Consolidation on the Governor's Sudden Inspection activity on the first day of work on September 24, 2009

THE SOCIAL GATHERING AT LEMHANNAS RI ON 29th SEPTEMBER 2009

Lemhannas RI Governor Prof. DR. Muladi, S.H. accompanied by the Chief and staff of the Lemhannas RI's Women's Association held a social gathering with the entire members of the Lemhannas RI and the PPRA XLIII at the Lemhannas RI tennis court

In a series of the Idul Fitri 1 Syawal 1430 H, Lemhannas RI Governor Prof. DR. Muladi, S.H. along with the Lemhannas RI community held a social gathering which is a tradition that should be maintained as it promotes moral values such as forgiveness for faults among each other, and also in the effort of improving harmony among the institute's members, because with harmony and task no matter how heavy, God Willing it can be accomplished.

In his foreword, the governor addresses that a strong and formidable spirit of togetherness, familiarity and brotherhood, which are built upon religious teachings and values are very much needed in dynamic organizations such as the Lemhannas RI, because it can help boost the realization of better organizational performance and it's also very much needed in order to achieve success in carrying out primary duties. As a public servant and the state's apparatus, one is expected to possess a high sense of morality. Elements of that high sense of morality consist of piety, honesty and sincerity along with conviction for the righteousness of duty that is one's responsibility whereas piety itself is the things that relate to the ability to maintain and safeguard one's self from deeds or actions forbidden by religion, and honesty along with sincerity is the awareness or motivation that resides in the heart. Thus in carrying out his/her duty it is solely for the interests and betterment of the institute and eventually for a more larger interest; that of the nation and country.

In the context of the institute's role, function and primary duties everything must be carried out based on high morality, the willingness to sacrifice and uniting to achieve the goals and being optimistic in order to move forward, because there are stakes on the existence of the nation, some of them being at the hands of LEMHANNAS RI.

PPRA XLIII'S 2009 OVERSEAS STRATEGIC STUDIES TO SEVERAL ASEAN COUNTRIES

On 10th October 2009, some of the PPRA XLIII participants Group D Lemhannas RI had a group photo before leaving for Soekarno-Hatta Airport to conduct Overseas Strategy Study in Vietnam

As part of the Regular Training Program Class XLIII, the participants conducted the Overseas Strategic Study activity. They were divided into 5 (five) groups with destination countries of Vietnam, The Philippines, China, Brunei Darussalam and Australia. The topic of this Strategic Study was: "Building Indonesia's Bilateral Relationship with Vietnam, The Philippines, China, Brunei Darussalam and Australia in order to improve economy development in the framework of National Resilience. The activity objective was to obtain data inputs and information of objects which were based on aspects of prosperity and defense and security, which included: background, future prospect, community's motivation/aspiration, realization of development implementation, impacts and other important matters.

THE ACTIVITIES OF THE LEMHANNAS RI INSPECTORATE

On 6th October 2009, in the office of the Lemhannas RI Inspector Board of Advisor, Brigadier General Police Drs. Alpiner Sinaga gave an explanation on the 2010 work program of Lemhannas RI Inspectorate, which was Improvement of Supervision and Accountability of State Apparatus Program with an objective to arrange and implement formulation preparation of supervision, planning, implementation program, reporting and audit, human resource and organizational capacity improvement policies.

Implementation of supervision and inspection on State apparatus (internal) is intended to conduct an internal audit that would provide inputs for the leader in order to achieve good governance management.

Among the activities to be conducted are:

1. Compiling/formulation of system and technical procedures.
2. Implementation of supervision and inspection.
3. Founding and evaluation of inspection results and follow-up.
4. Activity evaluation/report.
5. Coordination/work/official/head/work group/consultation meetings.
6. Improvement of a more comprehensive supervision coordination.
7. Study and compiling of regulations.

INSTALLATION PROCEEDINGS AND INAUGURATION OF ECHELON II, III AND IV OFFICIALS OF LEMHANNAS RI ON 12th OCTOBER 2009

Lemhannas RI Governor, Prof. DR. Muladi, SH is reading Oath Administration to the officials inaugurated on 12th October 2009

During the installation proceedings, inauguration, oath administration and release of echelon II, III and IV officials, the Lemhannas RI Governor, Prof. DR. Muladi, SH ordered that duty and function transfer in the Lemhannas RI environment is an activity of organization and personnel building process, in order to improve the organization's performance effectiveness, as well as to develop managerial and leadership abilities of those who are given opportunity to conduct the transferred duty and function. This is due to the fact that good human resource quality, supported with good leadership and management, would develop a fine organizational performance, which eventually will guarantee the achieving of basic duty implementation. This principle shall be a reference in creating a dynamic organization, which would keep the organization wheel rolling and moving towards achieving the organizational purpose effectively and efficiently.

Furthermore, the Governor stated that a part of world community, including the people of Indonesia, is definitely influenced by strategic environment development, which is a dynamic that is always followed by changes that directly influence the life of community, nation and state, for instance, the global issues that are still fresh in our memories, which are the issues regarding democratization, environment, human rights and terrorism. Those global issues have influenced and are able to change the life arrangement of the Indonesian people. An example is the democratization issue, in which it has made this beloved country of ours become the world's third democratic countries, after the United States of America and India. Even though in its implementation there are still conflicts occurring which could damage the nation's unity.

In the regional environment, there developed issues such as border conflict, patent rights, instability of several countries in the region, and other kinds of issues. If these issues are not solved wisely and according to the prevailing laws, they would give impact on various national life aspects, mainly economy, politics, and security.

In the national scope, we are still confronted by internal problems in ideology, politics, social culture and the field of defense and security.

While there are improvements being carried out in the economy sector, on the other side various national disasters, in the form of natural disasters had taken place in several areas of Indonesia, which had destroyed many houses, offices and other government means, and caused many casualties.

The timing of those natural disasters cannot be predicted, such as the one that happened in West Sumatera and its surroundings, which until today is still not completely taken care of. At the occasion the Governor, on behalf of the institution and himself, expressed deepest condolences to the community members who were hit by the disaster and ordered the big family of Lemhannas RI to care and help our brothers and sisters who are struck by the disaster by donating, according to our own capability, through the team that has been formed by Lemhannas RI in coordination with IKAL.
